BRAND IDENTITY / DIGITAL EXPERIENCE

SOUL THEORY

Brand & Website Brief

Wellness, rethought.

Science-led functional wellness. Everyday rituals. A better relationship with yourself.

Purpose of this document

A practical creative brief for the website designer and developer: what SOUL THEORY stands for, who it serves, how it should look and sound, which pages it needs, and how the website should support a long-term, multi-category wellness brand.

SAGE	IVORY	LAVENDER	POWDER BLUE	SOFT CORAL
#72836F	#F5F3EC	#EAE6F4	#E5EEF5	#F4E2DD

1. About SOUL THEORY

SOUL THEORY is an Indian, science-led functional wellness brand built for a new generation that wants to feel better, perform better, and live better—without making wellness complicated.

We believe wellness should be more than a trend, a temporary transformation, or an expensive lifestyle. It should be a natural part of everyday life.

SOUL THEORY brings together thoughtful formulations, functional nutrition, modern science, and distinctive design to create products that make taking care of yourself feel simple, enjoyable, and consistent.

From workout essentials and daily hydration to innovative nutrition and women's wellness, our vision is to build a multi-category wellness brand that fits seamlessly into modern life.

We want to make wellness accessible, aspirational, and trustworthy—helping people build small daily habits that contribute to how they feel, move, recover, and grow.

We are not here to sell perfection. We are here to make feeling better a part of everyday life.

2. Our brand philosophy

Science, not hype	Thoughtful formulations and transparent communication, with claims grounded in evidence.
Wellness for everyone	Accessible everyday wellness designed for both women and men.
Made to be enjoyed	Refreshing flavours, convenient formats, and an experience people look forward to.
Consistency over perfection	Products that fit into real routines, making everyday self-care easier to maintain.

3. Who we are building for

• Students and young professionals building healthier routines.

• Gym-goers and fitness enthusiasts seeking convenient daily nutrition.

• Women looking for thoughtful, approachable wellness solutions.

• Consumers who want functional products without the intimidating image of traditional supplement brands.

• Modern shoppers who appreciate quality, attractive packaging, good taste, and value for money.

Positioning: premium in experience, accessible in price, modern in design, and credible in science.

4. Our product universe

01 Performance & Fitness
Creatine and other thoughtfully developed fitness essentials designed to complement active lifestyles and training routines.

02 Hydration & Daily Nutrition
Convenient hydration and functional nutrition products designed for busy days, workouts, and everyday routines.

03 Next-Generation Nutrition
Innovative formats such as portable plant-protein gels that make nutrition more convenient and enjoyable.

04 Everyday & Women's Wellness
Future-focused products designed around everyday nutritional needs, with women's wellness as an important area of innovation.

These are planned product categories. The website should display only products that are launched or genuinely available for purchase.

5. Website design direction

Element	Direction
Colour palette	Sage green, seafoam, ivory, lavender, powder blue and soft coral.
Typography	Clean, contemporary, confident and highly readable.
Visual identity	Minimal, premium, youthful, distinctive and emotionally engaging.
Photography	Natural light, fresh ingredients, active lifestyles and tactile product shots.
Graphic elements	Subtle molecular structures, fluid forms and cellular-inspired patterns.
Layout	Spacious, mobile-first, clean navigation and strong product photography.
Overall feeling	Calm, refreshing, optimistic, trustworthy and aspirational.

Avoid a generic pharmaceutical website, an overly clinical supplement store, excessive neon gym aesthetics, or a stereotypically feminine beauty brand. SOUL THEORY should appeal to both men and women while retaining its distinctive pastel identity.

6. Recommended website structure

Home

A memorable headline, hero product, brand story, product categories and clear shopping links.

Shop All

Simple product cards, pricing, flavours, benefits, ingredients and product details.

Our Philosophy

Explain our approach to formulation, evidence, quality and everyday wellness.

The Wellness Journal

Educational articles on nutrition, hydration, fitness and healthy habits.

Contact & Support

FAQs, customer support, shipping, returns, contact details and policies.

7. Homepage headline and brand messaging

SOUL THEORY

Make feeling good a daily ritual.

Thoughtfully crafted wellness for the way you live today. Discover functional nutrition designed to bring more intention, enjoyment and consistency to your everyday routine.

Primary CTA: Explore Products Secondary CTA: Our Philosophy

Tagline options

• Wellness, rethought.

• Feel good. Live fully.

• Better habits. Better you.

• Your everyday, elevated.

• Science for your everyday self.

Recommendation: Use “Wellness, rethought.” as the core brand tagline and “Make feeling good a daily ritual.” as the homepage headline.

8. Brand voice

• Confident, not boastful.

• Science-led, not overly technical.

• Youthful, not childish.

• Premium, not inaccessible.

• Inclusive, not gender-restricted.

• Emotional, but never exaggerated.

Avoid unsubstantiated claims such as instant results, guaranteed transformations, disease cures, or miracle benefits. Product claims should be supported by the formulation and applicable Indian regulations.

9. The vision for SOUL THEORY

Our long-term ambition is to establish SOUL THEORY as a recognised Indian wellness brand with the potential to expand across functional nutrition, fitness, hydration and everyday self-care.

We want to create a brand people recognise not just for an individual product, but for its design, reliability, product experience and philosophy.

The website is the first step in building that identity: a digital home that communicates credibility, makes discovering products effortless, and creates a consistent experience from the first visit to repeat purchase.

---

10. Ready-to-send website developer brief

> We are building SOUL THEORY, a modern Indian science-led wellness brand focused on functional nutrition, fitness, hydration and everyday self-care for consumers aged 18–35.
>
> We want our website to look premium, minimal, youthful and internationally competitive while remaining accessible and relatable to Indian consumers. Our visual identity should use soft pastel shades such as sage green, seafoam, ivory, lavender, powder blue and soft coral, with clean typography, elegant product photography and subtle science-inspired graphics.
>
> The website should be mobile-first, fast, easy to navigate and built for e-commerce conversions. It should communicate trust, product quality, ingredient transparency and our brand philosophy without looking like a conventional supplement or pharmaceutical website.
>
> Our initial focus is on creatine, hydration and innovative nutrition formats, with plans to expand into other wellness categories. We need a distinctive homepage, product pages, About Us, Shop All, educational content, FAQs, contact details and all essential e-commerce and legal pages.
>
> The overall experience should feel science-backed, emotionally engaging, visually distinctive and premium in experience without being expensive or intimidating.
>
> Our goal is not simply to build an online store. We want to build a recognisable wellness brand with a strong identity and long-term customer loyalty.

Core principle: Build the website around the SOUL THEORY identity, not just creatine or protein gels. Individual products can evolve as the company grows, while the brand story, visual language and customer experience remain consistent.